Community Guidelines

Nobility Parent Coaching LLC ("Nobility") is committed to fostering a respectful, safe, and supportive environment for all members participating in our online community spaces, including membership portals, group chats, discussion boards, and other interactive features.

By accessing or participating in any Nobility community platform, you agree to the following guidelines:

Respectful Communication

- Treat all members with kindness, courtesy, and respect.

- Disagreements may occur, but personal attacks, name-calling, harassment, or bullying of any kind will not be tolerated.

- Hate speech, slander, or discriminatory remarks based on race, religion, nationality, gender, sexual orientation, disability, or age are strictly prohibited.

No Spam or Self-Promotion

- Do not post spam, advertising, or promotional content without express permission from Nobility.

- This includes unsolicited promotions of businesses, services, digital products, or external communities.

Keep It Safe and Appropriate

- All content must be appropriate for a professional and family-friendly community.

- Do not post graphic, explicit, violent, or otherwise inappropriate content.

- Users must not share, encourage, or solicit unsafe practices or unverified information.

Copyright and Ownership

- Do not share or upload copyrighted materials that you do not own or have permission to use.

- You may not post Nobility's digital products, lesson materials, or course content in public forums or share them outside of the approved platforms.

No False Claims or Misuse

- Do not present Nobility content as your own.

- Users may not misrepresent themselves or their credentials, or misuse any part of the site or community to imply official affiliation with Nobility if none exists.

Participation and Moderation

- Users are encouraged to participate by asking questions, sharing insights, and supporting one another in alignment with these guidelines.

- Nobility reserves the right to moderate posts, remove content, and suspend or terminate access for users who violate these guidelines without refund.

Confidentiality and Privacy

- Respect the privacy of others. Do not share personal or identifying information about other members without their explicit permission.

- Screenshots, copying, or reposting comments or content shared within the community outside of the designated platform is not permitted.

By engaging in any Nobility community feature, you agree to abide by these guidelines. Nobility reserves the right to revise these community standards at any time.